Applying Concepts from Equity-Centered Design - Reflection

Is there a topic or a work project that comes to mind that can benefit from parts of what you experienced today?

What are some elements or approaches of the equity-centered design practice that you can try or apply to the topic/work that comes to mind? What will that look like?

How might you commit to trying it out?

Resources to inspire your equity-centered design practice

Here is a list to get you inspired and going and in no way exhaustive/comprehensive. This field and practice is ever expanding, and you might find or know of resources beyond this list - including ones from your own practices. Some of these are focused on equity-centered design practices, some of these are focused on the use of human-centered design in food systems. We encourage you to explore, learn, and apply ones that are relevant to your own journey, context, and work.

"I'm not looking for process adoption, I'm looking for mindset change."
- Antoinette Carroll, Creative Reaction Lab.

- Creative Reaction Lab's Equity-Centered Community Design Field Guide.
  URL: http://www.creativereactionlab.com/eccd-field-guide
  We credit the Equity-Centered Community Design Field Guide for most of the methods used here in this workshop.

- National Equity Project's Liberatory Design.
  URL: https://nationalequityproject.org/services/liberatory-design

- Design for Equity's Intentional Meal Kit.
  URL: http://www.designforequity.org/meal-kit.html

- IDEO.org's How can we design a better food system for tomorrow?
  URL:
  https://www.ideo.com/question/how-can-we-design-a-better-food-system-for-tomorrow

- Emi Kolawole and Amy Lazarus/Stanford d.school's Designing for Worldview.
  URL: https://dschool.stanford.edu/resources/2016/12/5/designing-for-worldview

---

Our contact info:

Fun Fun Cheng
fcheng@thefoodgroupmn.org

Jamie Bain
jbain@umn.edu

Sook Jin Ong
sookjin.ong@gmail.com
www.ongsookjin.com